Crime and Safety Assessment Task Force

September 27, 2016

Purpose:

Several areas of Minneapolis experience higher levels of crime than the city as a whole. This level of crime is thought to diminish the willingness of residents in those areas to become engaged with their communities. The lower level of resident engagement inhibits efforts to address crime in high crime areas.

This task force will examine the effects of higher levels of crime on community engagement in Minneapolis neighborhoods and determine strategies for increasing resident engagement in high crime areas.

Charge/Deliverables:

A report that recommends strategies for increasing resident engagement in high crime areas.

Membership:

Up to five members of the NCEC and seven non-NCEC community members.

Duration/Anticipated time commitment:

The task force will be active through June 2017.
